Cornelius McDaniel

#372 | Generation 8 | Sixth-great-grandfather | Grade B PASS

Grade B PASS: Cornelius McDaniel is admitted as the father of George McDaniel #186. The specific family reconstruction in J. H. McDaniel's 1984 query identifies George's wife as Isabella Neely and links Jane McDaniel with William Combs. It is a late, uncited family assertion, tested here against independently preserved census and property evidence rather than treated as contemporary proof.

The 1830 Madison County, Alabama census places Cornelius near William Combs, with Rachel Harland's household intervening. In Hardeman County, the checked deed index records Cornelius's gift to George at D:263, registered in 1835, and George's 1847 sale to William Combs at J:32. The distinct 99-acre purchase is D:256. These interlocking donor, recipient, associate and spouse identities support the reported family across Alabama and Tennessee.

The 1837 District 10 tax transcription further places George, William Coombs, Martha McDaniel and a Neely household in the same district. It does not establish adjacency or identify Martha as George's mother. That identification remains unresolved because the family account also names Martha Wright as William McDaniel's wife. The gift deed's full wording has not been inspected; no explicit son clause or acreage for that gift is claimed.

The cumulative, specific family correlation meets the controlling B threshold. The 1830 household's oldest male is 60–69; an approximate 1760–1770 birth range is retained, without an exact date or birthplace. No connection to Henry of Virginia, John of Scotland, the Kentucky Patsy Dickey marriage, or a military serviceman is admitted. The younger nineteenth-century Cornelius is a separate identity. No new Patriot credit follows.

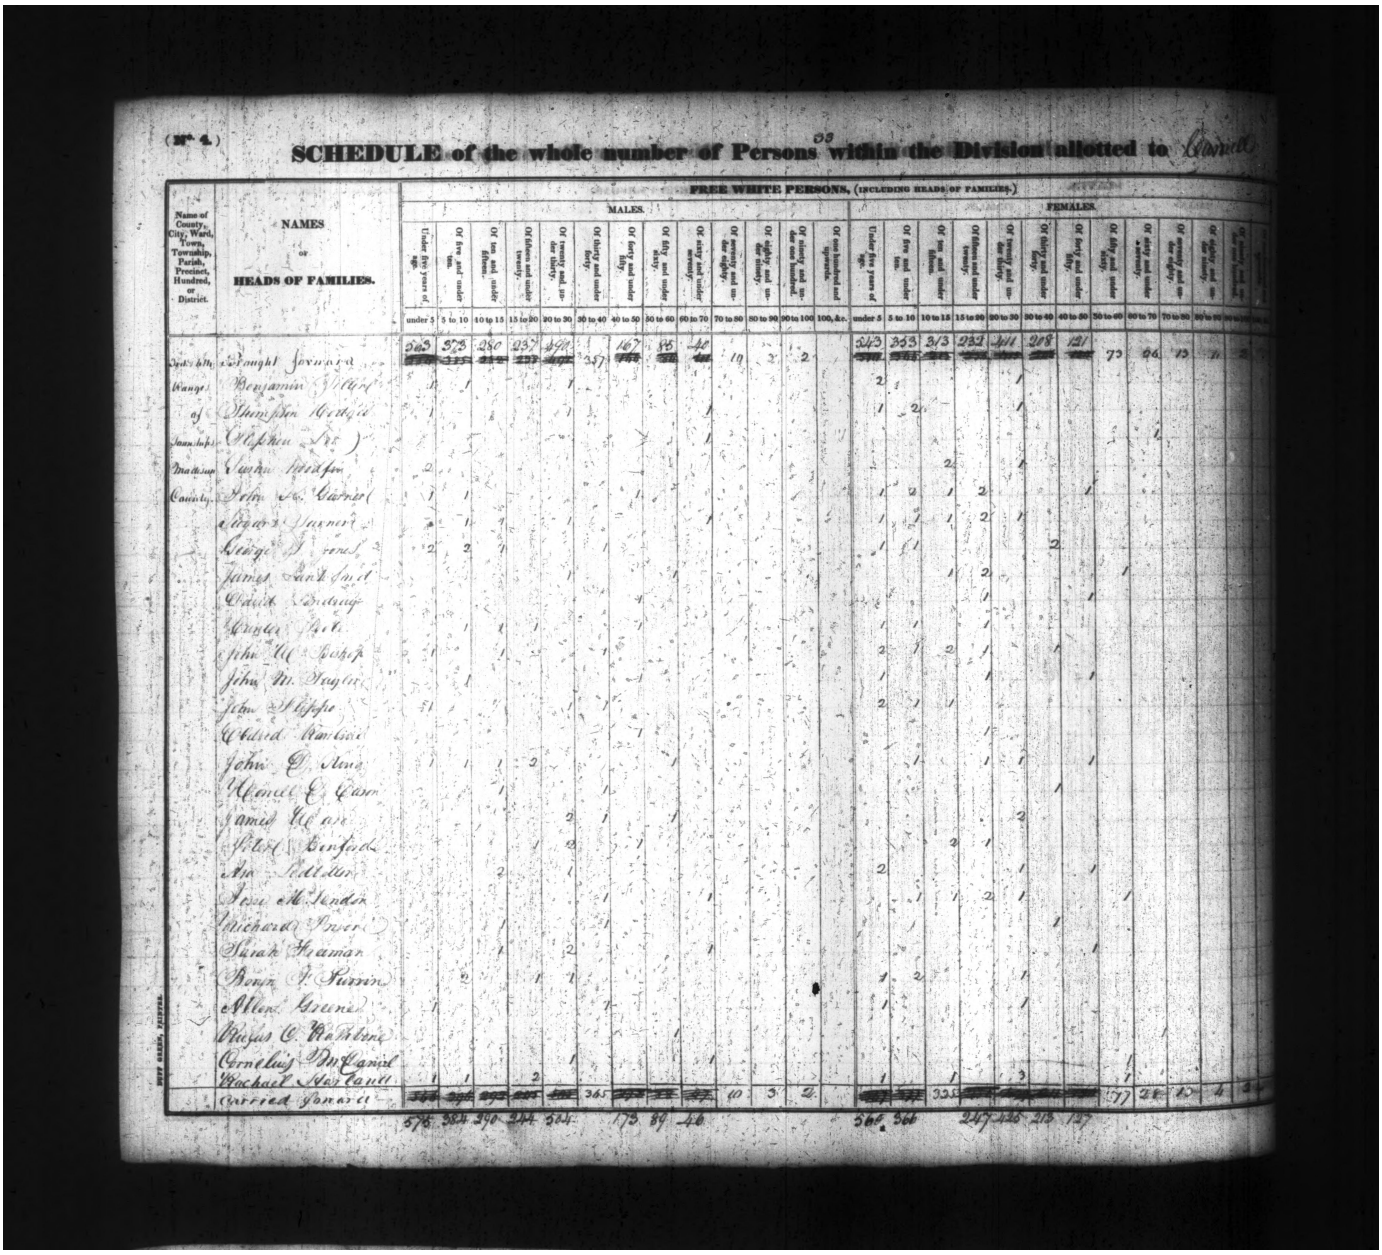

Number control: #372 = 2 x #186. One new ancestor and one identified position. George's existing fatherhood of Jane #93 remains admitted. No mother, upstream parent or serviceman is added by inference.

Direct descent: Cornelius McDaniel > George McDaniel > Jane (McDaniel) Bryant > Robert M. (Moorman) Bryant > Ellie F. / Ella F. Bryant McCommon > Eunice Pearl McCammon > Ola Inez Jacobs > Olis Creed Tucker Jr. > Clark Hollin Tucker

Cornelius in Madison County

1830 U.S. census | NARA M19, roll 4 | Manuscript p. 33

Cornelius appears on the next-to-last household line. His household includes males 20–29 and 60–69 and a female 50–59. The younger male is not identified as George. On the following page William Combs follows Rachel Harland, leaving one intervening household between Cornelius and Combs.

Original census images, leaves 252–255; manuscript pp. 33–34

Francis Veal

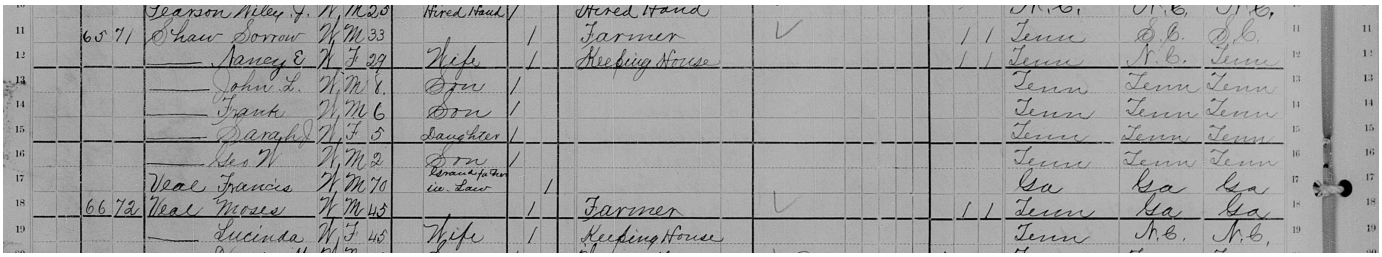

Generation 7 | Fifth-great-grandfather | Grade B PASS | Admitted, unplaced

Grade B PASS: Francis Veal is admitted as the grandfather of Nancy Elisabeth Shaw / Shew #39. The original 1880 census identifies him as grandfather-in-law in the household headed by Sorrow Shaw, whose wife is Nancy E. Shaw. Read in its ordinary family context, the relationship identifies Nancy's grandfather. Her documented Elizabeth Veal marriage name and the local Veal household context corroborate the identification.

The census was inspected in the original image: Monroe County, Tennessee, Cane Creek civil district 20, ED 212, p. 23 (159D), 25 June 1880, dwelling 65/family 71, lines 11–17. Francis is reported as a 70-year-old widower born in Georgia. The informant is unidentified. The biological interpretation is a qualified inference at B, rather than an assertion that the census expressly distinguishes biological from step-grandparentage.

The connecting parent is not identified. Francis belongs in Generation 7, but neither paternal-grandfather position #156 nor maternal-grandfather position #158 is selected. He is one admitted, unplaced ancestor. No unnamed parent is counted and neither possible position is marked occupied by him. Nancy's Brooks/Veal surname history and the competing earlier Nancy identities remain unresolved.

The 1850–1870 household transcriptions supply further research leads, not identified parents. No Josiah/Susanah Brooks, Dolphus/Lorena Brooks, or Moses/Lucinda Veal parental assignment is admitted. The grandfather finding is retained independently of those unresolved routes; it is not a rated-B-but-held relationship.

Loretta Cupp

Generation 5 | #43 | Surname corroborated at B | Existing A/B relationship retained

Loretta's Cupp surname is corroborated at Grade B by the Scott family Bible marriage page, naming Alexander Erskine Scott and Loretta Cupp, with year 1874. The unusual adult and child-name sequence, including Tulliola, correlates the Bible to this admitted family. Her existing A/B relationship grade is retained; no new person is counted.

The scanned family pages were inspected through the Tennessee Genealogical Society's 18 December 2020 post. The scribes and timing of early entries are unidentified; the pages include later additions. This is original family-record handwriting, not automatically contemporary testimony to the 1874 marriage. Neither parent of Loretta is named.

The Bible reports Mrs. A. E. Scott's death as 8 March 1928, age 74; the official TSLA index identifies that date in Madison County, certificate 9318. The original death certificate remains uninspected. The Bible's Tulliola birth date of 14 September 1878 in Hardeman County differs from her 1972 death certificate's 13 September 1878, Alabama; both are retained. Alexander's Bible death-year reading 1926 differs from the official 1925 index and remains unresolved.

No new person or parent position

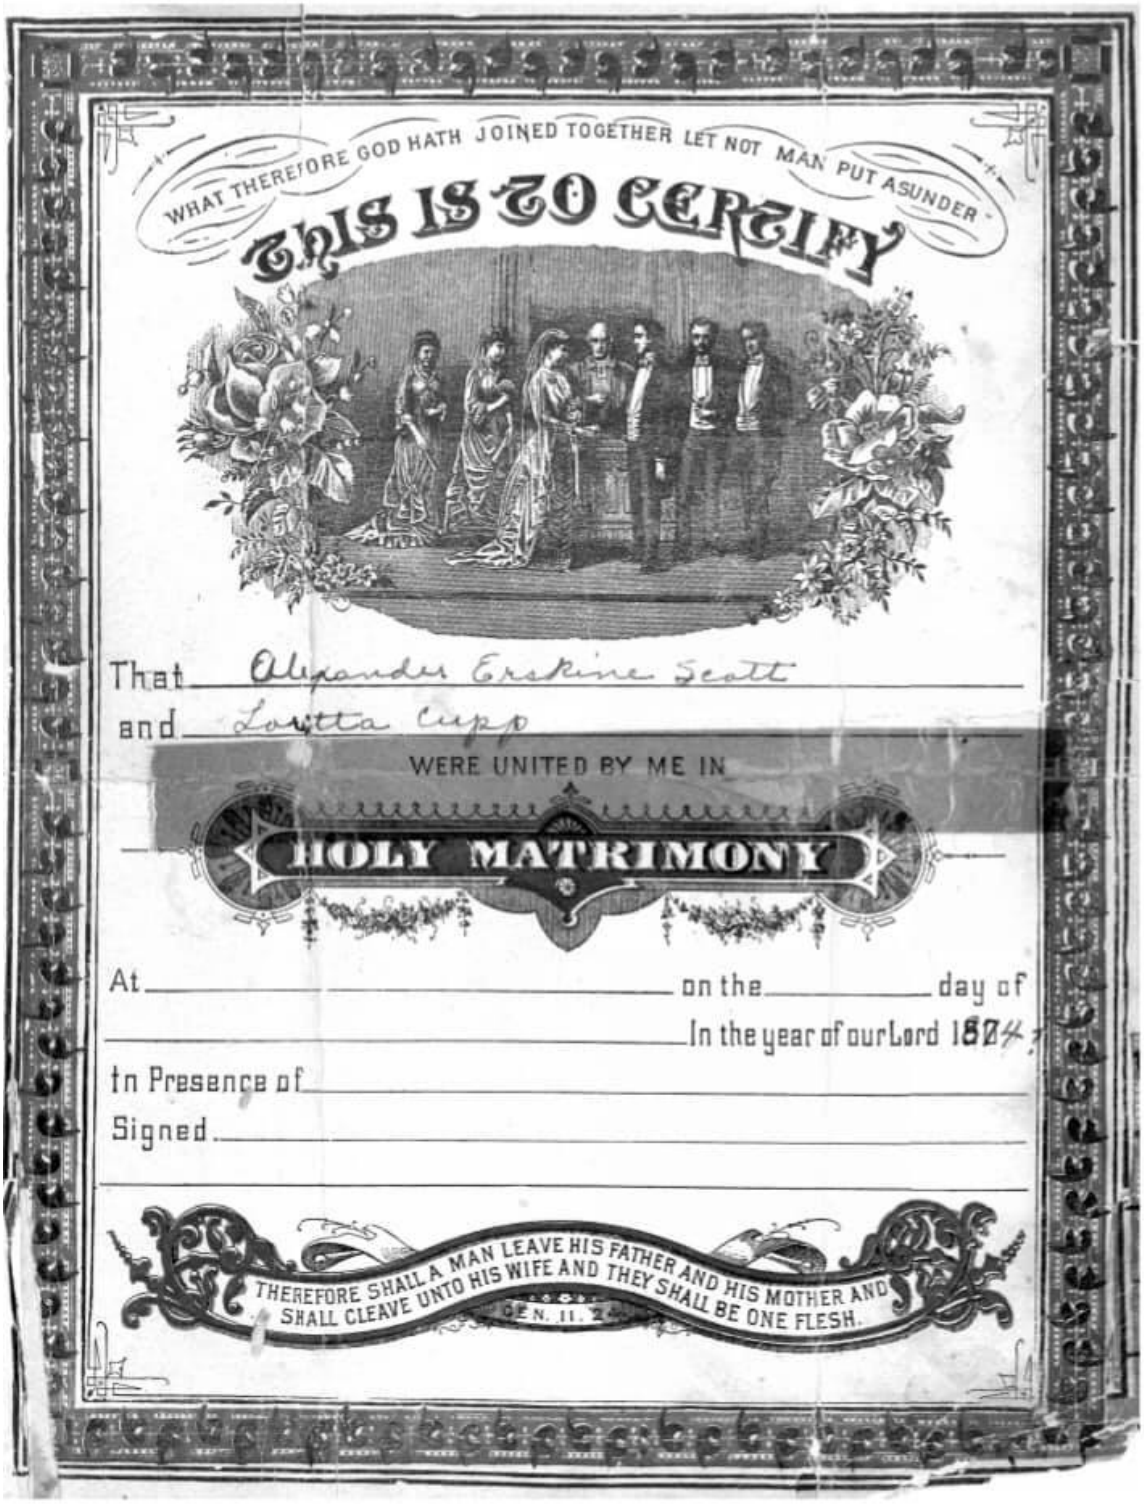

Loretta was already admitted. This strengthens her documented surname and adds source evidence. The precise 20 January 1874 Fayette County marriage from a compiled profile remains an original-record target; the Bible itself supplies the names and year, with the place, day, month and officiant unfilled.

Scott family Bible images: Tennessee Genealogical Society, 18 December 2020, reporting the Oregon Genealogical Society's Bible; four handwritten pages inspected.

The paired pages identify the admitted Scott household through the distinctive children's names. Tulliola's Bible entry reports 14 September 1878 and assigns Hardeman County, West Tennessee; her later death certificate differs on day and state. These are retained as competing reports, not silently harmonized.

The separate memorandum reports Mrs. A. E. Scott's 8 March 1928 death, corroborated by the official index. Complete downloaded family images are embedded in this master. No parent of Loretta is identified by the pages.

Research and military scope

Wallbreaker 2 | Assessed admissions separated from further research

No duplicate Ann admission

Ann Lenderman #149 was incorporated at 234/276. This report's earlier 233/275 baseline is superseded. John and Joan Duxford, Jacob Michael, Nathan Kirkland and the Joanna Way block remain admitted without re-counting.

Military roster remains at ten Patriots

Cornelius's genealogical admission does not establish identity with a same-named serviceman. New York and other roster leads remain research targets; the New Jersey man reportedly killed in 1782 cannot be assumed to be the man in Alabama in 1830. No new military classification or Patriot credit is added.

No unsupported parents or medieval cascade

Martha's maternity of George remains unresolved. No parent of Cornelius, Nancy, Loretta, Zida Smith, Eliza Ayers, McGregor or Higgs is newly admitted. The reported Somerton litigation identifies a father for its litigant, but does not establish that litigant as the admitted Helmingham John Bacoun. No Generation 21 admission follows.

Useful leads retained

The supplied report preserves census and deed locators, pension distinctions, Bible source details and further record targets. Its new Eliza obituary and other findings are retained as report evidence for subsequent focused review; they are not presented here as independently inspected originals or new parent admissions.

Report preservation

The entire supplied Wallbreaker 2 text is embedded unchanged for provenance. Instructions or proposed admission orders inside it are source material, not independent authority. The relationship rulings on pp. 1663, 1665 and 1666 and current register govern this release.

Count control and source register

236 unique ancestors | 235 placed + Francis Veal unplaced | 277 identified positions

234 prior ancestors + Cornelius McDaniel + Francis Veal = 236 unique admitted ancestors. The numbered pedigree gains only #372: 276 + 1 = 277 identified occupied positions. Including Clark: 237 people and 278 identified positions. Francis's relationship is admitted, but his route through Nancy's unnamed parent is not filled with an invented node. #156 and #158 remain alternatives, not assignments.

The index was inspected in its published form. The 1830 and 1880 original census images and Bible handwriting were inspected visually. The tax source is a published transcription. The named original deeds and death certificates are archival targets; their unrecovered wording is not invented.

Same admission rule: a supported B, B+, A/B or A relationship passes. Qualifications remain in the proof note; they do not create a separate admitted-grade hold. Current PDF, text, structured register and websites use this same decision and distinguish people from assigned positions.
