JOHN JACKSON “BUSHWHACKIN’” KIRKLAND

Infamous leader of the Kirkland Bushwhackers

Confederate second lieutenant | Company B, 3rd Tennessee Infantry

John Jackson Kirkland and Julia Giles Kirkland

Clark Hollin Tucker’s first cousin five times removed Grade B: strong indirect genealogical proof. Rebecca Kirkland Shaw’s nephew; Bazel “Bas” Shaw’s nephew by marriage. A collateral Confederate relative, outside the direct-ancestor veteran count.

The Kirkland boys: my blood cousin John

John Jackson ‘Bushwhackin’ John’ Kirkland was my blood cousin: my first cousin five times removed, at Grade B. He served as a Confederate second lieutenant in Company B, Vaughn’s 3rd Tennessee Infantry, before becoming known as a leader of the Kirkland Bushwhackers. His story runs through the same mountain country and the same extended family as Bas and Rebecca Shaw. Shaw testimony is on pp. 904-913; newly recovered court orders are on pp. 933-948.

The family connection

John’s mother, Eppie Caroline Kirkland, was Rebecca Kirkland Shaw’s sister. John was Rebecca’s nephew, Bas’s nephew by marriage and a first cousin of their children. My blood connection runs through Rebecca. The family statements and correlations supporting that relationship are preserved on pp. 745-750; John remains a collateral relative, outside the direct-ancestor veteran count.

The brothers and their service

John and his brothers James Madison ‘Jim’ and Benjamin William ‘Bill’ Kirkland are associated with Company B, 3rd Tennessee. John’s officer position became vacant at the May 14, 1862 reorganization. On May 17 he swore that he was a former second lieutenant and gave Four Mile Branch, Monroe County, as his post office. The retained nineteen-image jacket contains no formal desertion charge. The reported December 1863 mill burning cannot explain a commission that had already ended in 1862. The regiment’s battle history does not establish John’s personal combat. Reports of Jim’s and Bill’s July 1863 Vicksburg paroles remain qualified pending verification of the exact entries and identities.

A family divided by the mountain war

Local histories associate John’s band with raids, ambushes and killings around Tellico Plains, Turkey Creek, Citico Creek and the Unicoi Mountains. Bas Shaw’s own Company D, 59th Tennessee record places his discharge at Vicksburg on March 22, 1863, before the siege. Later accounts describe him assisting Union troops as a civilian scout. His son James Washington ‘Jim’ Shaw served in Company K, Union 11th Tennessee Cavalry; an 1885 examiner described Jefferson ‘Jeff’ Shaw as a civilian killed for his Union principles. Later regional accounts attribute the sons’ deaths to Kirkland’s bushwhackers. If correct, that means members of the band killed their leader’s own first cousins. John’s personal participation is not established.

Bas, Jim and Jeff: keep the accounts distinct

The retrospective ‘Affair at Toqua’ account places Bas’s capture by Captain William R. Abbott’s scouts on December 7, 1864, and his shooting the following day while being taken toward Asheville. His son Joe Berry was reportedly released. The marker on the following page preserves that account and separately attributes Jim’s and Jeff’s deaths to Kirkland bushwhackers. Rebecca’s 1885 testimony places Bas’s death in December 1864; other family statements conflict. The precise sequence and named perpetrators remain Grade C. I am keeping those limits visible: the evidence does not establish that John personally killed Bas or either son.

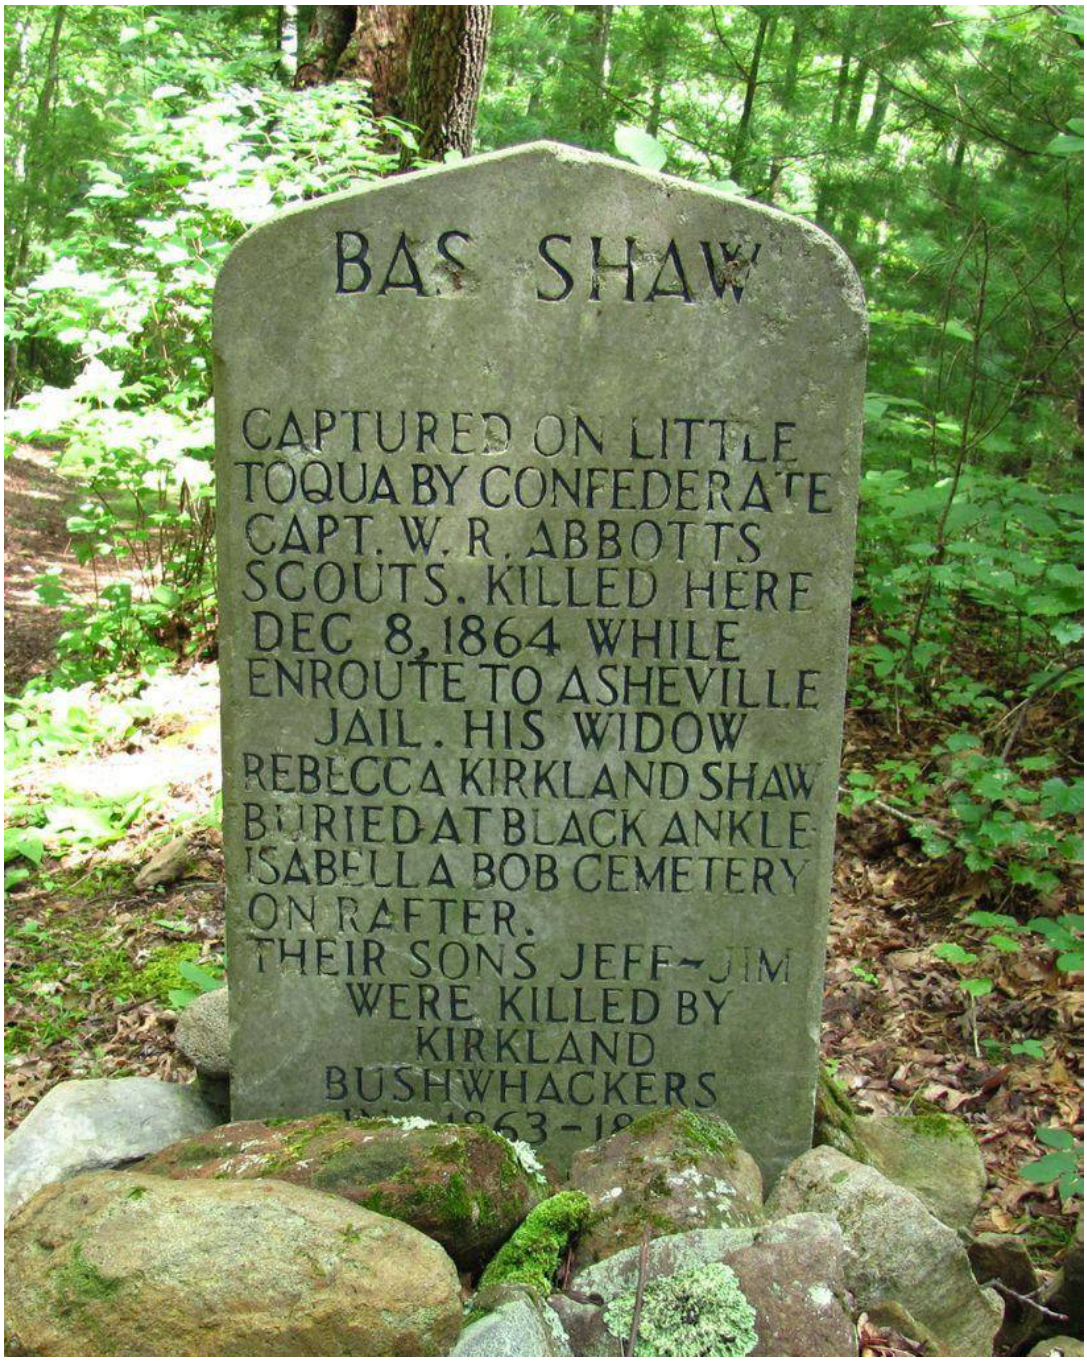

What the records let me say

John and William were later named in the Anna Rodgers murder indictment; James and his wife appear in witness-cost records. An accusation is not a conviction, and those entries do not tell me what the witnesses said. The 13 May 1868 order retired Case 75; it was not a verdict (pp. 933-948). Nor can I place John, Bas and Israel Hollingshead together at Vicksburg’s surrender: their individual service dates contradict that proposed account. John’s history is part of mine, but I will not invent a shared battle, an escape or a verdict to make the story stronger.

Bas Shaw’s grave marker

The inscription names Confederate Captain W. R. Abbott’s scouts, gives December 8, 1864, and identifies Rebecca Kirkland Shaw as Bas’s widow. Its separate final passage attributes the deaths of sons Jeff and Jim to Kirkland bushwhackers.

COMPETING IDENTITIES EXCLUDED: Rebecca Kirkland Roberts, born about 1837, is a daughter in the Ben-Eppie generation, not Rebecca Kirkland Shaw. Albert and Andy place their paternal grandfather John/Jack above Benjamin: that older man is not their brother John. The young Benjamin, age 22 in the 1850 neighboring household, is not silently made the father of an adult John born about 1827. The target is identified through Julia Ann and the Delilah/Susan family cluster, rather than through a common forename alone. John Haulk and the North Carolina legal defendant have not been comprehensively identified; their full identities remain unresolved, and neither is used as the connecting ancestor.

REMAINING UNCERTAINTIES: the identity and legal role of John of N.C.; the exact man meant by older Jack references; the inaccessible 1867-1868 chancery case; remote Kirkland ancestry above the shared James-Susan couple; conflicting dates and some sibling names; precise responsibility and dates in the Shaw killings; the portrait's original provenance. These limits do not supply the essential steps in the independently established nephew route. No second cousin relationship or great-granduncle relationship is admitted.

A complete indirect proof argument

1. Identify Rebecca through her own son and grandson

Criss C. Shaw, born 24 January 1853, identifies his father as Baze Shaw and his mother as Becca Shaw, maiden name Kirkland (26494, image 400). On image 401 he names his maternal grandparents James Kirkland and Susan Kirkland and their children James, John, Epie, Jessie, Criss, Becca, Riss, Wm and Andy. Image 402 again names his mother Becca and her father James. This is firsthand knowledge of his parental household and retrospective knowledge of grandparents. It independently supplies the maternal couple missing from Frank A. Shaw 29621, whose grandparents were Baze and Rebecca and whose Q22 also names Rebecca's father James. Sarrell Shaw's 1932 death registration and the 1850/1860 household strengthen the same-person identification. [NEW-26494-400/401/402; GM-0198/0199; VITAL-23884]

2. Identify Eppie through her sons, not a secondary tree

Albert C. Kirkland 33702 names Benjamin and Eppie Kirkland as his parents (PDF p.519). His maternal grandparents are James Kirkland and Susan (p.520). In the list specifically headed James Kirkland's children, he names John, James, Jes, Criss, Wm, Andy, Lizzie, Rebecca and Eppie. The overlapping cluster, same place and same parental couple distinguish this family from a chance match on James alone. Criss names Epie among his mother Becca's siblings; Albert names Rebecca among his mother Eppie's siblings. This reciprocal evidence from sons of the two women supports full sisterhood at B. [NEW-33702-519/520]

3. Correlate Eppie, Caroline and Eppie Caroline

Andy Kirkland 8597 names his parents Ben and Caroline Kirkland (PDF p.806) and his maternal grandparents Jim Kirkland and Susie Baston (p.807). In his sworn 1908 testimony, Andrew names the same parents Ben and Eppie Caroline and the maternal grandfather James. His birth year, place and family cluster correlate Andy with Andrew. Albert's Eppie and Andy's Caroline are thus supported as the same woman by the combined name in the later testimony, not assumed from a similar forename. Susan/Susie with the James/Jim partner is independently supported from the Rebecca and Eppie branches. The surname reading Baston is supported by Andy and Eliza Linn; expanded spellings Bastian/Boston are variants to investigate, not separately proved birth names. [NEW-8597-806/807; KIR-617; LINN-251]

4. Establish John as a son of Ben and Eppie

Albert lists John first among his own brothers and sisters; Andy likewise lists John among his siblings and reports a death in 1903 (PDF p.807). These original family statements supply the previously missing son in the Ben-Eppie family. They do not rely on a tree importing John. The year 1903 conflicts with the usual 1902 death attribution and is not silently corrected; it is a retrospective date discrepancy, while the immediate sibling relationship is repeated. [NEW-33702-520; NEW-8597-807]

5. Distinguish that John through his daughter and wife

Brazel Williams 33726 names his parents Wm Williams and Delilah, maiden name Kirkland (PDF p.650), and maternal grandparents John Kirkland and Juliann Kirkland (p.651). He lists their children Sarah, Caroline, Delilah, Susan, Lee, Wm and Minnie. In Q22 he explicitly traces his mother Delilah to John and John to Ben (p.652). The wife Juliann and daughters Delilah and Susan match the 1860 Monroe and 1870 North Carolina John-Julia households; the combination is far more discriminating than name or state alone. The 1848 Julia Ann Giles marriage license supplies the surname. This connects the married civilian John to the Ben family whose son Albert names Eppie as mother. Rebecca Roberts and Andy Kirkland witness Brazel's application; that strengthens family association but also reduces source independence. [NEW-33726-650/651/652; original civil exhibits]

6. Correlate the civilian, officer and historical subject

The same John-Julia household moves from Monroe to western North Carolina. The 1878 John-Martha L. Washam marriage and 1880/1900 North Carolina households provide a qualified later sequence, with age, initial and birthplace variations retained. The 1901 Reliance, Polk County, pension S3751 identifies John Kirkland of Company B, 3rd Tennessee Infantry, and reports only about 14 months' current Tennessee residence. Two former comrades, Daniel Rymer and S. E. A. Rymer, say they served with him in Virginia when he was a lieutenant in the 3rd Tennessee. This agrees with the original officer jacket's unit and Virginia service and the historical identification of the borderland leader. The pension does not name his wife or parents and is corroboration, not a standalone birth or household record. Bill Baker's published Affair at Toqua also specifically identifies William Williams's wife Delilah as the bushwhacker leader's daughter; that secondary identification matches the original Brazel Williams family statement and the census daughter cluster. It is contextual corroboration, not an original sworn identification of the nickname. The civilian-to-officer identification is B by combined chronology, locality, family sequence and service details, rather than A from a single explicit bridge. [JKPEN-617/618/619; JKCMSR-2921 through 2939]

7. Evaluate independence and competing explanations

Criss, Albert, Andy and Brazel are separate family informants. They share an eligibility proceeding, some witnesses and the preparer Geo. W. Isbill, so their statements are not counted as four wholly independent ancestral traditions. Their immediate relationships nevertheless come from different positions in the family: a son of Rebecca, sons of Eppie, and a grandson of John and Julia. The independent census households, marriage records, military paperwork and 1885 Shaw testimony constrain their identities. A copied remote Cherokee tradition is less reliable than convergent immediate family identification. No evidence located indicates an adoptive or step relationship in the essential line; ordinary stated parent-child relationships support the biological conclusion at B.

8. Resolve the route and calculate only after establishing it

James and Susan had daughters Rebecca and Eppie; Eppie and Benjamin had John. Therefore John was Rebecca's nephew and Bazel Shaw's nephew by marriage. Rebecca's son S. A. Shaw and John were first cousins. Clark descends five further parent-child steps from S. A. The common ancestral couple is two generations above John and seven above Clark: min(2,7)-1 = 1st cousin; |7-2| = five removals. The result is FIRST COUSIN FIVE TIMES REMOVED, Grade B. It is recalculated from these records, not retained merely because an earlier report asserted it.

Contradictions and limits retained in the proof

Brazel's Q22 extends Ben's father as James, whereas Albert names his paternal grandfather John with Jackson written above and Andy's supplement refers to Jack and Sarah Shelton. The remote paternal extension is contradictory and remains C; it is not needed to establish John's immediate parents or his maternal connection to Rebecca. No proposed Nathan father is substituted for these original answers. No second-cousin-five-times-removed route is admitted.

Eliza Linn reports her father James died in 1872; Caroline Kirkland 18825 reports 1873; Rebecca's brother James was alive and testified in 1885. Those men or death statements are not silently merged. The decisive reciprocal sisterhood argument comes from Criss and Albert, rather than requiring Caroline's father to equal the 1885 witness. Their James-Susan grandparent cluster is useful corroboration, while that particular James identity remains unresolved.

The 1850 James, 67, and Susan, 64, live beside the Shaw family and a matching Kirkland cluster. This supports the parental-couple identification but is not itself a relationship statement. Exact birth dates and every child's identity are not established by that census. Albert's Lizzie and Criss's Riss may be distinct people or a naming/recall variation; no automatic merger is made.

The conventional lifespan 1827-1902 varies from the 1900 census birth month/year October 1828 and Andy's 1903 death report. These variations remain qualified. The 1901 pension also reports Jackson County, N.C., as birthplace despite its opening Tennessee-native wording. It records memory impairment described by a physician. Its late recollections of enlistment in April 1861 and leaving at Lee's surrender do not override the contemporary May/June 1861 enrollment/muster and May 1862 officer vacancy.

A rejected Guion Miller application proves that a claim was made; it does not prove Cherokee ancestry or tribal citizenship. The immediate family relationships can be useful even when remote ancestry and eligibility claims fail. No Cherokee fraction, enrollment or citizenship conclusion is made.

The original 1867-1868 case remains inaccessible after two distinct routes. The 1873 legal John remains C. Neither is a necessary premise of this proof. The missing Uncle Jack passage in Frank's application is a corrected citation error, not a hidden substitute for the new son-and-grandson evidence.

Eight independent relationship grades

1. Rebecca paternity | B

James Kirkland: her son Criss names him, grandson Frank agrees, and the reciprocal James-Susan sibling cluster and neighboring 1850 household discriminate the family. Exact dates remain qualified.

2. Rebecca maternity | B

Susan Kirkland: Criss directly names his maternal grandmother; Albert names the same couple and Rebecca as Eppie's sister. Susie Baston is supported through Andy's matching maternal couple and Eliza's separate statement. Bastian/Boston spellings are not independently proved.

3. Epsie Caroline parentage | B

James and Susan: Albert's maternal grandparents and child list, Andy's Jim/Susie Baston, Andrew's 1908 Eppie Caroline statement and Criss's reciprocal sibling list.

4. John paternity | B

Benjamin/Ben: Brazel identifies grandfather John, husband of Juliann, as Ben's son; Albert and Andy identify brother John in their Ben family.

5. John maternity | B

Eppie Caroline: Albert names Eppie as his mother and John as brother; Andy names Caroline and brother John; Andrew supplies the combined name. The John-Julia/Delilah bridge identifies the target family.

6. John of N.C. | C

The 1873 order lacks identifying wife, age and precise North Carolina county; the original 1867 case was not retrieved. No automatic target identification.

7. Uncle Jack | C

Absent as such from Frank 29621. Eliza's Jack is her grandfather's brother; Andy's paternal Jack is a grandfather. Neither is equated with the younger target.

8. Complete John-Clark biological relationship | B

First cousin five times removed through James-Susan, Eppie-John and Rebecca's six-edge admitted descent to Clark. Independent historical perpetrator claims are not upgraded by this grade.

James and Susan Kirkland -> Eppie Caroline -> John; James and Susan -> Rebecca -> S. A. -> Louisa -> Grace -> Olis Sr. -> Olis Jr. -> Clark. John was Rebecca's nephew; Bas's nephew by marriage; first cousin to Bas and Rebecca's children; Clark's first cousin five times removed.

Scope of validation

The pedigree review used the 737-page pre-update master, identified by SHA-256 7615840c1094c6c07501a40feab68ebc75bb99fd62782879004418e7ab8d3f80. Its register contained 140 admitted ancestors plus Clark and 18 held candidates, 159 profiles in all. The final 1 November 2026 edition supersedes that historical source edition. No alleged 207-person or v9 master was established.

The six Rebecca-Clark edges and profile IDs remain unchanged. The new collateral connection is supported at B. No new direct-ancestor register rows are added; the protected baseline remains 140. John is an additional collateral Confederate relative, not an eighth direct Confederate veteran.

Final adversarial audit

Could John of N.C. be a different John?

Yes; identity remains C and is not used as an essential step.

Could Uncle Jack be a great-uncle or older relative?

Yes. The inspected wording places Jack in older generations. The brother/nephew decision is established by the new applications instead.

Could Benjamin-Epsie be only a tree error?

No longer merely a tree claim: Albert, Andy and Brazel provide the independently correlated original family statements. Their remote ancestry remains disputed.

Could the brother theory misread heirs?

Yes. The original pleading is unavailable and legal heirship does not necessarily mean siblinghood. The identified John is a nephew through Eppie in the new evidence.

Does the 1867 case identify Susanna as Rebecca's mother?

Not established; no original inspection claimed. The maternity finding rests on Criss, Albert and Andy instead.

Are the sources copying the same account?

Some common tradition is likely, particularly for remote Cherokee ancestry. Shared preparer and witnesses are acknowledged. Immediate family statements are constrained by independent civil, military and pension processes.

Does every generation match the master?

Yes, using its existing admitted chain and grades, with original Frank/Sarrell evidence additionally inspected here. This is not a fresh exhaustive re-proof of every living-person vital event.

Is the calculation correct?

Yes: John is two and Clark seven generations from the shared parents of Rebecca and Eppie. First cousin, five removals. A great-granduncle designation would require the contrary brother route; it is not used.

The complete retrieved military files

All 19 images of the cataloged John Kirkland Confederate compiled service jacket are preserved and reproduced: NARA RG 109, M268 roll 126, item 180231298, images 2921-2939, Company B, 3rd (Lillard's/Vaughn's) Tennessee Infantry. The file documents junior second-lieutenant service and an officer vacancy at the May 1862 reorganization. This is the entire retrieved cataloged jacket, not a claim that no separate military record survives elsewhere.

Pension S3751 is preserved in all five consecutive images 615-619, with the following different claimant at image 620 confirming the boundary. John applied at Reliance, Polk County, on 26 October 1901; it was filed 28 October. The application is stamped REJECTED. A note says pensionability required proof that the condition resulted from service. Rejection is not evidence that he never served. Two comrades attest his lieutenant service in Virginia. The complete file is reproduced, including its cover, rather than selected favorable pages.

The name John Jackson and nickname Bushwhackin' identify the historical subject. They are not silently inserted into original forms that say John or Jno. His guerrilla leadership is a historical identification; the service jacket does not itself document individual bushwhacking incidents or establish culpability for the Shaw deaths.

Stonewall J. Roberts, being duly sworn and examined, deposes and says:

My name is Stonewall J. Roberts. I am 46 years old and was born in Monroe Co., Tenn. I claim my Indian blood through my mother who was Rebecca Roberts, and Rebecca Kirkland. My mother's ~~mmmmmm~~ mothers name was Epsey Caroline Kirkland. My mother was born in Monroe County, Tenn., in 1837. Hermother claimed Indian blood. Benjamin Kirkland was born either in Burk or Rutherford Co. Epsie Caroline Kirkland was born in what is now Haywood Co., but then known as Buncomb. I knew my grandmother and lived with them until after in I was 23 years of age. I never heard of my mother or grandparents drawing any money. My mother always lived in Monroe Co., and her parents were living there at in 1851. Her parents came to Tenn. about 1830/ My mother married about 1855. I never heard that my mother or grandparents went by any other name than Kirkland. They were generally known in the community as white people. I never heard of my grandparents living in the nation, although they lived among them at times. My grandparents owned a little property at that time and that was one of the reasons that they would not be enrolled in 1851. I do not remember hearing that any Indians were taken off in 1851. My grandparents lived up here in the upper end of this county in 1835-6. He owned a place here on Cane Creek. I have also heard my grandmother say that her father said he would rather diethan be taken off. I never heard of theer suddenly leaving this part of the country, and the people around not knowing where they were.

Appln. No.

Andrew Kirkland, being duly sworn, deposes and says.

My name is Andrew Kirkland. I was born in Monroe Co. Tenn. I am 57 years old. Stonewall J. Roberts is my nephew. I am a son of Benjamin and Eppie Caroline Kirkland. I knew them well. I knew James Kirkland, my grandfather. I knew John Kirkland, my grandfather on my father's side but never saw him. My mother was born about 1812. My I think my grandmother Eeppie C. Kirkland was born in N. C. My father and mother were generally known as white people. I never received any money as an Indian. My father and mother never received any money that I ever heard of. My father and mother were not enrolled because they owned some property up in the mountains and they did not want to leave it. I heard them talk about an enrollment. They did not want to go away and that was the reason they were not enrolled either time. I never heard of my father and mother leaving suddenly and going away anywhere, so that people did not know where they were. I never heard of their hiding away in the mountains. I know of no reason why an enrolling officer of the United States could not have found them. They were well known people in the county and everybody knew where they lived. My father and I always voted.

In re

William H. Linn, being duly sworn, deposes and says: I am 77 years old and have lived in Monroe Co., all my life. I knew Benjamin Kirkland and knew his wife. I have known them all my life. They were living here when I first knew them. I understand they came from Buncombe Co., N. C. I have heard them say that Eppie Kirkland and Benjamin Kirland were cousins and it was said their fathers were half Indians. They were John and Jack or James. They lived in Monroe Co. James died in Polk Co. Thye were both living in 1851, but they were living in 1835 but I did not know them until that time. James Kirkland was an uncle to my father. James Kirkland and my father married sisters on my fathers side. They said they were Cherokees. I heard James Kirkland say that he did not leave the country because he owned a little farm in Monroe County and that he would rather die than leave. It was in 1851 when he was speaking about it. I remember the time of that enrollment in 1851. I do not know of any Indians being carried off in 1851. They knew about the enrollment in 1851 and 1835. I never heard of the Kirklands hiding away in the mountain and they wefe well known people in the county. I know of no reason why the enrolling agents could not have found them if they had tried. My wife was a Kirkland and my daughter Becca (#23721.) comes through this line.

Reading transcription: punctuation and capitalization regularized; [is] supplies an omitted word. The original manuscript controls the reading.

The affidavit directly supports the officer's stated identity, former rank, unit and post-office address. It adds contemporary locality evidence to the civilian-to-officer correlation. It names no parents, wife or Rebecca Shaw; the complete collateral relationship to Clark Hollin Tucker remains Grade B.

Kirkland and Shaw: a divided family

The Shaw family in the original records

The war divided this family in ways a list of uniforms cannot explain. Clark's direct ancestor Baze or Bazell Shaw is identified, at Grade B, with the Confederate private whose surviving service jacket records enrollment at Knoxville on January 10, 1862, and discharge at Vicksburg on March 22, 1863. That discharge came before the siege. His service is part of the family history, but it does not put him in the later siege or the July surrender.

James went into Union service

His son James Washington Shaw took a different course. A Treasury report dated March 21, 1867, identifies him as a private in Company K, 11th Tennessee Cavalry, enrolled September 20 and mustered October 12, 1863. The report transcribes the company roll as "Captured and Killed Jan. 1st 1864." James Kirkland and W. H. Linn later described examining his fatal gunshot wounds and helping bury him, attributing his death to guerrillas about February 1, 1864. Those are different dates, and neither document identifies the individual who shot him. The burial testimony establishes what the witnesses saw afterward; it does not make them eyewitnesses to the shooting.

Jefferson was a civilian

The distinction matters just as much for James's brother Jefferson. In his July 1885 investigation, pension examiner Milton C. Dent explicitly said Jefferson was not in military service and shared James's fate because of his Union principles. His civilian status must remain explicit. His civilian status makes his death no less part of the family's wartime loss.

Rebecca's account, and what remains unresolved

Rebecca told the examiner on July 28, 1885, that her husband was killed in December 1864. Earlier pension paperwork gave a conflicting death account. Later local history reports that Rebels killed him after his discharge; the inspected deposition establishes Rebecca's account of a killing, but does not itself identify the killers. No inspected original proves John Kirkland personally killed Bazel, James, or Jefferson. That distinction must remain visible even when a later story gives a more definite answer.

What the neighbors remembered

The pension depositions also preserve ordinary life under extraordinary strain. Larkin Cardin remembered that the boys' father went into the army and asked him to look after three boys, the oldest about sixteen. Cardin supplied corn and meat against their labor. He described Rebecca's poverty and her small log cabin. James Kirkland identified himself as her brother and said James was her only son in the army. These details show relatives and neighbors trying to keep a household alive, without settling the separate question of who committed the killings.

John’s brothers and the family connection

John Kirkland was Rebecca’s nephew and Bazel’s nephew by marriage. His brothers James Madison and Benjamin William belong in this account as distinct men, not interchangeable names. Reports place James Madison as a corporal and Benjamin William as a private in Company B, 3rd Tennessee Infantry, with Vicksburg parole associations. Those individual service and parole claims remain qualified pending the original cards; John’s own inspected jacket cannot prove his brothers’ service. Nor can their reported Vicksburg associations extend Bazel’s service beyond his March 1863 discharge.

The Anna Rodgers case after the war

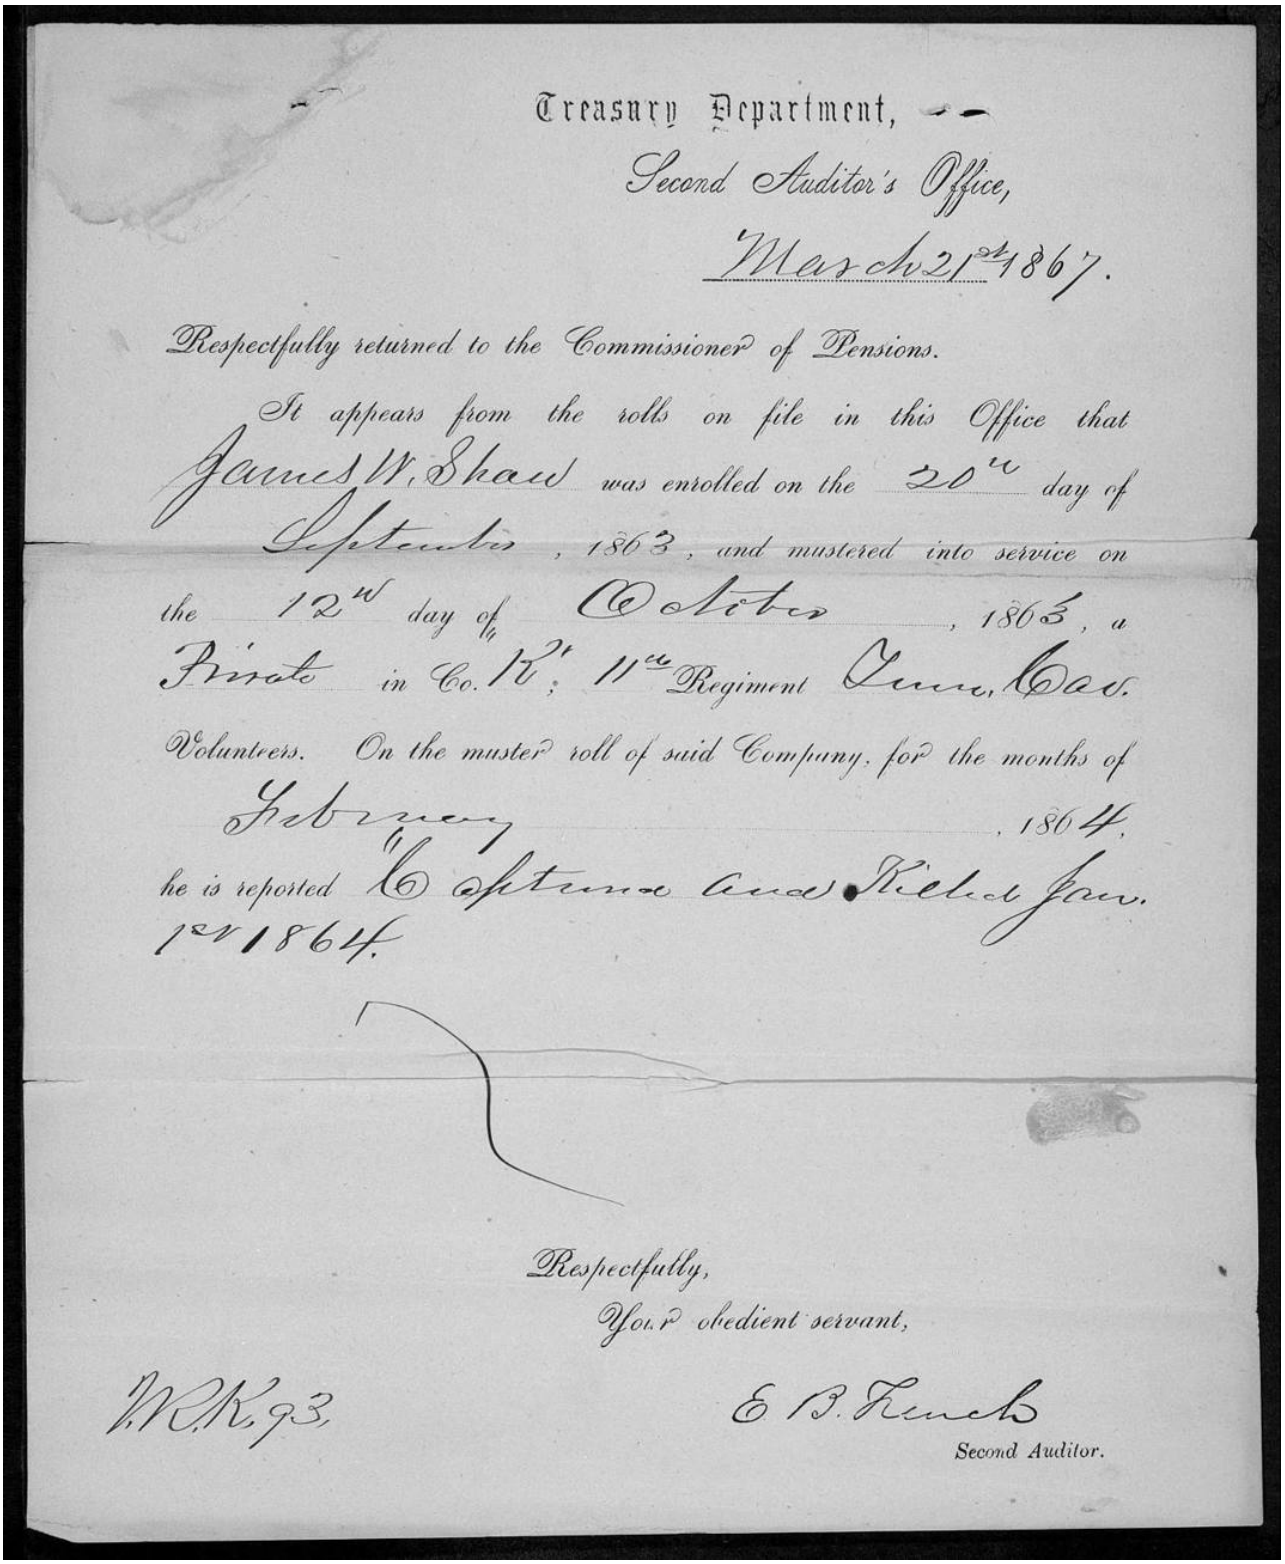

The 1866 indictment concerning Anna Rodgers named John Kirkland, William Kirkland, Samuel Rodgers, Joseph Phillips and Gale Roberts. It records an accusation, not a conviction. A surviving cost bill lists Caroline Kirkline, Mary C. Kirkland and J. M. Kirkline, each for four days and forty miles at $5.60. Those entries are assessed witness costs; they are not payment receipts or testimony about what each person said. A September 1867 return reports that the defendants were not found in the county. That does not establish that they were never arrested or tried at any other time. The 13 May 1868 minutes now document Case 75's removal to the retired docket, with costs charged to Tennessee. This was not a verdict; the original order and search limits follow on pp. 933-948.

Existing military and case exhibits remain in place: Bazel service pp. 629-641; Cardin testimony pp. 632-633; Anna Rodgers indictment p. 811; unsuccessful return p. 812. The following additional original pages provide the detailed pension evidence and witness-cost record.

It appears from the rolls on file in this Office that James W. Shaw was enrolled on the 20th day of September, 1863, and mustered into service on the 12th day of October, 1863, a Private in Co. K, 11th Regiment Tenn. Cav. Volunteers. On the muster roll of said Company, for the months of February, 1864, he is reported Captured and Killed Jan. 1st 1864.

pensioners, as her two sons (the last two) and her husband were shot down like dogs; the other son Jefferson was not in service but shared the fate of James on account of his "Union principles". In the testimony of Lucken Cardin it appears that the father placed his 2 boys under 16 years, when he enlisted, in the hands of the former, and that Cardin furnished the family corn and bacon. I recommend that pensioners name be restored to the roll.

A Not much; never owned any land; neither did her husband who was killed during the war; since his death, she has usually had one or two cows, and an ox; she has lived on rented land most of the time; her children have lived with her all along until now only one is left; sometimes four or six children have lived with her & sometimes less. they have lived out at irregular times at such work as they could get. She has never during the last 20 years raised more than a one-horse crop. She used to raise about two hundred bushels of corn while they lived on the Henderson place, but they have not averaged 100 bushels since that; they have usually kept six or eight hogs; had little patches of vegetables produced. Her boys and girls all worked the crop, and now her daughter Mary is the only one left and she does the ploughing. She has usually cultivated ten or 15 acres of land; she herself has worked in the field hoeing corn, and other farm work since her husband's death; she has been obliged to work; she depends entirely on her labor and that of her children and has done so many years; she has always lived in a log cabin of one room, James helped before he died.

2 What has been the amount of her income from all sources?

A I do not believe that all she raised would bring much over fifty dollars, but I should judge that it usually has been worth about 100 dollars; always been under 125 dollars.

2 How did she manage to live then?

A Never had anything but common rough, fare such as corn bread and hog meat; she had milk of course.

2 How many sons did she have in the army?

A Only one James; he was about 20 years old when he enlisted.

2 Where was he living at that time?

A With his parents; he worked with his father; he worked out for others; a while before he enlisted he worked for Col. Johnson who kept a store, and who paid his wages to the parents in provisions. Johnson & his wife are both dead; he cut wood for Johnson

Kirkland and Shaw: recovered research review

Mexican War service remains unproved

Fifth Tennessee Mexican War service remains unproved. The correct compiled-service series is NARA M638 roll 13, Fifth Tennessee Infantry A-K (DGS 005412812), not rolls 14-15. The final William A. King card at image 2559 is immediately followed by Alfred Kite at image 2560, with no intervening Kirkland/Kirklin jacket. Similar-name Louisiana and North Carolina index cards lack an identity bridge to John Jackson Kirkland. This bounded negative search does not prove lifelong non-service.

Case 75: retired docket, 13 May 1868

On 13 May 1868, Monroe Circuit Court placed Anna Rodgers murder Case 75 against John and William Kirkland and others on the retired docket after repeated arrest writs were returned with the defendants not found. The State of Tennessee was ordered to pay the costs. This is a documented procedural disposition, not a conviction, acquittal, pardon or nolle prosequi in Case 75. No later reopening or merits judgment was established by the targeted searches; a separate retired-docket register was not retrieved.

The three Shaw men remain distinct

George Bazel Shaw is retained as a former Confederate soldier whose later death is described in conflicting retrospective evidence. James Washington Shaw is the Union cavalryman reportedly killed by guerrillas. Jefferson Shaw is the pro-Union civilian; no military service is assigned to him. The recovered report does not justify identifying a specific killer or merging these three histories.

Family relationship and service

John and William Kirkland remain collateral relatives; the accepted family relationship stays Grade B. The detailed record, original service jacket, pension testimony and case papers already occupy master pp. 742-814 and 904-913. Reported Vicksburg parole entries for other Kirkland men remain unverified individual-service leads.

Original orders now inspected

The 14 September 1866 nolle prosequi applies to G. K. Roberts only. On 14 January 1868, robbery No. 59 was discontinued while murder No. 75 received another arrest writ. The 1870 retirement of robbery No. 350 is also separate. The new court and military exhibits, transcription and search limits follow on master pp. 933-948; the earlier indictment and return remain on pp. 811-812.

13 May 1868 original order: p. 23, image 403

Fifth Tennessee compiled-service catalog

The missing court order is found

Anna Rodgers murder prosecution, Monroe County, Tennessee | Case No. 75

Documented disposition: retired docket, 13 May 1868. The Circuit Court ordered the case against John and William Kirkland and others removed from the active docket because repeated arrest process had been returned with the defendants not found. The court placed the case on the retired docket and ordered Tennessee to pay its costs. [C6]

This establishes an administrative disposition. The order does not record a trial verdict, acquittal, conviction, pardon, or a nolle prosequi in Case 75. No later reopening or final merits judgment was established by the search coverage described below.

The sequence the originals establish

January 1866: the indictment names five defendants and alleges the attack on Anna Rodgers on 12 March 1865. [C1]

14 September 1866: the prosecutor enters a nolle prosequi as to G. K. Roberts, conditional on securing costs. Roberts and William Dyer confess judgment for those costs. Another arrest writ is ordered for the remaining defendants. [C2]

7 and 11 September 1867: the deputy returns the arrest writ unexecuted; the minutes then order further process in the murder prosecution. [C3-C4]

14 January 1868: the court discontinues a separate robbery prosecution, No. 59, against John and William Kirkland and others. On the same page it orders another alias capias in murder No. 75. [C5]

13 May 1868: Case 75 is placed on the retired docket because the defendants have not been found. [C6]

Mexican War result

Fifth Tennessee service remains unproved. The original federal compiled-service sequence contains no Kirkland/Kirklin file between King and Kite. The similarly named federal index entries examined identify Louisiana or North Carolina units. They cannot be assigned to John Jackson Kirkland without independent identity evidence. [M1-M5]

Evidence assessment: direct contemporary court evidence for the procedural orders; negative military search evidence only. This investigation does not upgrade genealogical links, assign military service, or alter ancestor counts.

What the 13 May 1868 order says

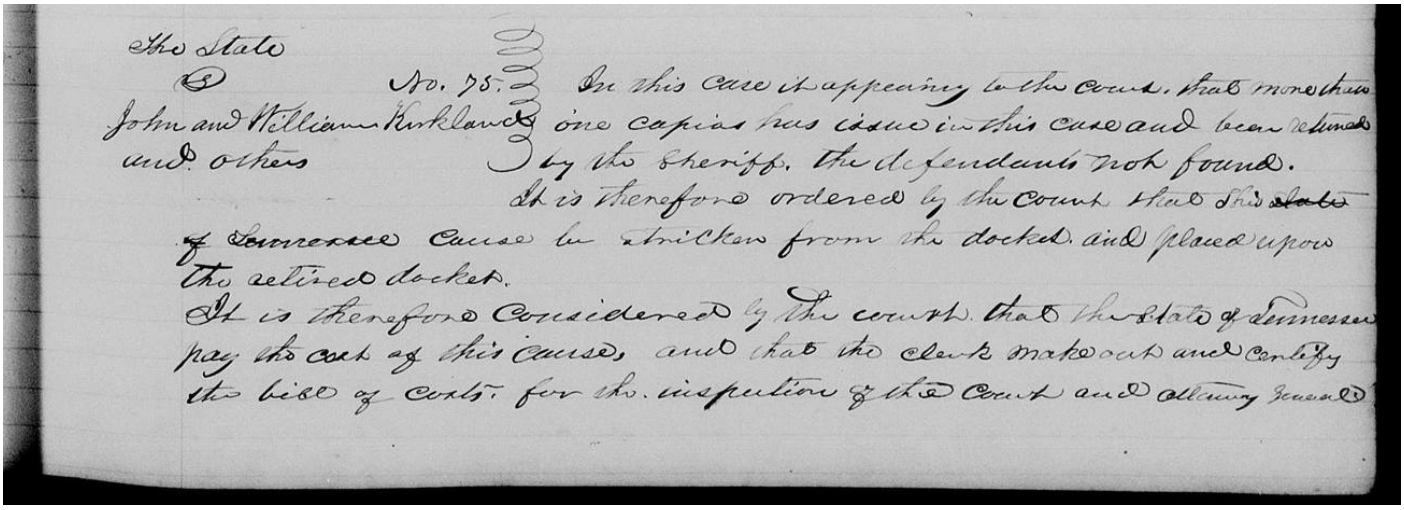

Monroe Circuit Court minutes, p. 23 | DGS 008478542, image 403 | Exhibit C6

Caption: The State v. John and William Kirkland and others. No. 75.

In this case it appearing to the Court, that more than one capias has issued in this case and been returned by the Sheriff, the defendants not found. It is therefore ordered by the Court that this cause be stricken from the docket and placed upon the retired docket. It is therefore considered by the Court, that the State of Tennessee pay the cost of this cause, and that the Clerk make out and certify the bill of costs, for the inspection of the Court and attorney General.

What this proves: the court took Case 75 off its active docket on that date because the arrest process had not secured the defendants. What it does not prove: that John killed Anna, that he was innocent, that he was convicted, or that a later reopening was legally impossible.

The Fifth Tennessee service check

Original federal compiled service records and general index cards, Mexican War

The earlier Argon lead relied on local recruitment and the proximity of a reported muster-out date to John Kirkland's 1848 marriage. Neither circumstance identifies him on a military record. An individual enlistment, muster, pay, discharge, pension, or bounty-land record is needed.

The correct film

The FamilySearch catalog identifies NARA M638 roll 13 as Fifth Tennessee Infantry, surnames A-K: FHL film 882809, DGS 005412812. Roll 14 covers Fifth Infantry L-Z; roll 15 is Wheat's Mounted Volunteers. Argon's rolls 14-15 lead was misdirected for Kirkland. Catalog 315075

The browsed sequence reaches the final card of William A. King at image 2559, followed immediately by the jacket of Alfred Kite at image 2560. No Kirkland or Kirklin jacket appears in that alphabetical interval. Both images are preserved. [M1-M2]

The similar-name index records

John D. Kirkland: Company G, 1 Louisiana Infantry; second lieutenant. [M3]

John D. Kirkland: Company A, 3 Louisiana Militia Infantry; private. [M4]

J. H. Kirkland: reference card directing the reader to Kirklin, Hampton, Company A, 1 North Carolina Volunteers; private. [M5]

These cards describe other unit records. They do not supply a birth, residence, family, signature, or other identity link establishing that the subject was John Jackson Kirkland of Monroe County. A matching surname or initials is insufficient. The two Louisiana entries are not assumed here to be the same man as each other.

Conclusion and limits

No original record inspected establishes his Fifth Tennessee service. This is a bounded negative finding, not proof that he never served anywhere. A misplaced file, different surname spelling, or unexamined military series remains possible. These are later federal compiled-service and index cards derived from military records; they are not all original 1847 company muster sheets. No pension or bounty-land search is claimed as newly completed in this investigation.

Search coverage and source controls

What was checked, what remains open, and how to use the evidence

1866-1873 court minutes: DGS 008478542, catalog 82836. Reviewed the 77 returned Kirkland images and 18 additional Kinkland/Kirklin results, plus case-number and co-defendant searches. The manuscript index supplied additional page references. Automated transcriptions were used as finding aids; the decisive orders were read from the downloaded manuscript images.

Later screening: exact-name queries for John Kirkland, John Kirklin, Kirkland John, and William Kirkland in DGS 008478543 (1873-1880) and 008478544 (1880-1889) returned nine and three images respectively. All twelve were read; none established a reopening of Case 75. This was a targeted name search, not a page-by-page audit of those later books. The 1889-1904 minutes were not examined in this pass.

Remaining limit: no separate retired-docket register was retrieved. The official Tennessee microfilm inventory does not separately list one. Its survival or availability should not be assumed. Any claim of a later acquittal, conviction, pardon, or final dismissal requires another record. The 13 May 1868 order itself is now established.

Separate case warning: a 12 January 1870 order retires robbery No. 350, captioned J. Kirkland and Jo. Philips. It is preserved for comparison and must not be substituted for the 1868 disposition of Anna Rodgers murder No. 75. [C7]

Corrections to the earlier research

The relevant court minutes and M638 images were accessible online in the signed-in FamilySearch session. Claims that these checks necessarily required an offline pull were incorrect. The report now replaces speculation about Case 75's disposition with the actual dated order. It does not repeat the unsupported assertion that the defendants were never arrested or tried at any later time.
